

RPAC Gallery Presents Guest Artist Katushka Millones with “An Intimate Encounter with Nature” Ridgefield, CT.

Long time Brookfield resident, contemporary artist Katushka Millones, will be showcasing her latest works at RPAC Gallery in Ridgefield, CT.

Having been forced by the pandemic to work from home, Katushka went back to what she loves most: making art. On and off for over two decades, she decided to become a full-time artist. Throughout the last year, she's produced more than a hundred pieces - 70 of which will be hanging on the gallery's walls from August 5 to September 12.

The show is entitled “An Intimate Encounter with Nature” and this is what she has to say:

“For me, nature is an inexhaustible source of inspiration. I'm fascinated by skies, vast lands, and the presence of water. Having been an observer for many years of traveling, I have accumulated an enormous bank of images that are accompanied by sweet memories - not only of happiness, but solitude as well.

I'm hoping to create a poetic and magical moment that reveals itself in massive quietness, the absence of obstacles, and the presence of boundless land. My goal is to have the viewer bear witness to, and be absorbed by, the scene - a scene trapped in time, of sounds and breeze, of light and shade, of movement and repose.

The works I'm showing in this event are inspired by hikes, photographs, and visual observations made when experiencing my surroundings. These paintings are the result of direct observation - a complex combination of natural elements and the recollection of the emotions that I felt observing those scenes.”

An architect graduate from her birth country, Peru, she's always found satisfaction in the arts. Having experimented with music, photography, and technical drafting, she finds her best in her art studio, where her imagination has no boundaries.

Moved by Turner's dramatic skies, Kandinsky's colorful palette, and Cornell's assemblages, her present work explores the relationship between the land and the sea- where a welcoming moment of solitude awaits the viewer.

“An Intimate Encounter with Nature” 70 works on display by artist Katushka Millones at RPAC Gallery, 410 Main Street, Ridgefield, CT. From August 5 to September 12, 2021.
